Last Saturday, my 8-year-old son, Chase, and I were shopping in a supermarket. Chase was busy weighing each new bag of vegetables I collected. I handed him a bag of tomatoes and he walked over to the scale and waited patiently in line. Suddenly, an old man walked up behind Chase, and stepped before him, bumping Chase out of the way. Chase looked shocked and scared. Seeing this I left my shopping cart and walked over to Chase, saying loudly, "Are you all right, honey? I saw what that man did to you. That was very, very wrong."

When the man finished weighing his bag, he turned around too quickly and all of his onions spilled out of his bag and onto the dirty floor. The three of us froze for a moment. Then I got down on my hands and knees and started collecting onions while the old man accepted them from my hands and put them back into his bag. After Chase and I retrieved all the onions, the old man walked away. We didn't discuss the event until we got back in the car.

On the way home, Chase said through tears, "Mommy, I've a frustrating day. That man cut right in front of me. And we had to help him pick up his onions! Why did we do that? That didn't make any sense."

I took a deep breath and said, "Chase, that man seemed to have a very bad mood today. We should forgive him. I was also angry with that man for treating you rudely. I really wanted to kick him. But doing that doesn't make any sense. If we hadn't helped that old man, we might have felt good for a moment, but then I bet we would have felt really sorry for a long time. You and I have a lot of love to share. Maybe that man doesn't have much. People who behave badly still need love."

A cheerful smile appeared on Chase's face. It was a smile of a promise kept. It was the best smile I have ever seen. God, it was a good moment. It may have been my best mommy moment ever.

24. What did the old man do?

A. He hit Chase on the head. B. He hurried away without paying.

C. He jumped the queue. D. He ran into Chase suddenly.

25. The underlined word "retrieved" in paragraph 2 probably means _____.

A. picked up B. took out C. gave out D. put away

26. What can we infer from the passage?

A. The old man was very sorry for what he had done to Chase.

B. At last, Chase learned a valuable life lesson form the event.

C. The author was not angry at all with what the old man had done.

D. Chase didn't help the author pick up spilled onions for the old man.

27. Which of the following words can best described the author?

A. Narrow-minded. B. Broad-minded. C. Strong-willed. D. Bad-tempered.

When you are admitted to a local university, especially one without accommodation, perhaps you'll live at home and become a commuting student(走读生)which benefits you. It's cheaper and you can have a comfortable and familiar situation, which means you'll enjoy home meals you're used to instead of the changeless food in the university café.

However, commuting students need to try their best to get involved in the life of their college and to take special steps to meet their fellow students. Often, this means you should be active to seek out and talk to people in your classes whom you think you might like.

One problem that commuting students sometimes face is their parents' unwillingness to recognize that they're adults. The change from high school to college is a big one, and if you live at home you need to develop the same kind of independence you'd have when you were living away. Home rules that might have been appropriate when you were in high school don't apply. If your parents are reluctant to renegotiate, you can speed the process along by letting your behavior show that you have the responsibility that goes with maturity. Parents are more willing to acknowledge their children as adults when they behave like adults. If, however, there's so much friction（摩擦） at home that it disturbs your academic work, you might want to consider sharing an apartment with one or more friends. Sometimes this is a happy solution when family tensions make everyone miserable.

28. According to the paragraph 1, commuting students will_____.

A. spend more money　　B. enjoy various food in cafes

C. enjoy home meals　　D. live in the dormitory

29. Why is it not easy for commuting students to be accepted as adults?

A. They are independent enough.

B. Home rules don't take full effect.

C. They have strong responsibility.

D. They behave like children.

30. What's the best solution if commuting students conflict with their parents?

A. Having a negotiation with parents.

B. Having cold war with parents.

C. Talking with their best friends.

D. Moving out to live with friends.

31. What does the passage mainly talk about?

A. The relationship between commuting students and classmates

B. The advantages and disadvantages of commuting students.

C. The problems between commuting students and their parents.

D. The college life of Commuting students involved in.

Planted for their fragrance and beauty, roses historically have been the center of much praise and are one of the most universal symbols of love and life. As the phrase goes, sometimes you do have to "stop and smell the roses".

Although you may think that this is just a fancy way of saying taking some time to enjoy life, perhaps we have dismissed roses for too long. Seriously, you should pay more attention to those roses. They could greatly improve your life. That is, if you are one of the millions of people in the US who suffer from arthritis（关节炎）diseases.

Result from two different arthritis studies have proved that an active ingredient of rose hips has been shown to protect and possibly rebuild joint tissue broken down by arthritis. The latest results, presented at the World Conference in Rome showed that protein GOPO(R) found in rose hips can protect vulnerable cartilage（软骨）. GOPO(R) has also been shown to improve mood, increase energy and sleep quality of those affected by arthritis. Marked by stiffness, swelling, loss of flexibly and pain, arthritis can significantly stop one from a normal life.

"We have little doubt that certain rose hip preparations, and GOPO(R) in particular, have had an important role to play in reducing the pain and disability caused by arthritis," said Winther. With the aid of this new research, those affected by joint pain caused by arthritis could choose an alternative treatment than pain killers. "We suspect that more people will be turning to the power of rose-hip for joint pain relief," said Winther.

Sorry Shakespeare, but in this case, no other rose could smell as sweet.

32. The author asks us to pay more attention to roses because_____.

A. roses can represent love and life　　B. roses are very sweet

微信公众号：麓山南路情报站

C. we are so busy as to ignore roses D. roses have some unknown uses

33. Protein GOPO(R) found in rose hips can do all the following EXCEPT____.

A. protecting vulnerable cartilage B. improving mood

C. improving sleep quality of normal people D. improving the life of those affected by arthritis

34. The last paragraph of the passage is used to _____.

A. doubt Shakespeare B. laugh at Shakespeare

C. stress the importance of roses D. further explain the smell of roses

35. What would be the best title for the passage?

A. In Pain? Stop and Smell the Roses

B. Roses, the Center of Praise

C. Roses, Symbol of Love and Life

D. Sorry Shakespeare, No Other Rose Could Smell as Sweet

第三部分（共五小题；每题 2 分，满分 10 分）

根据短文内容，从短文后的选项中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。选项中有两项为多余选项。

Although many Chinese students say that their knowledge of English grammar is good, most would admit that their spoken English is poor. Whenever I speak to a Chinese student, they always say, "My spoken English is poor."36 I would like to suggest that there may be some reasons for their problems with spoken English.

First, they fail to find suitable words to express themselves due to a limited vocabulary.37 However, you can speak with a limited vocabulary, if you choose a positive attitude. Others will follow you as long as you use the words that you know.

38 Sometimes they make mistakes when they are speaking because they are shy and nervous. Yet students should remember that their goal should be FLUENCY NOT ACCURACY. Your aim in writing is to be accurate following the rules for grammar and using them to get your message across. But to talk to someone in English, as quickly and well as you can, even though sometimes you may use a wrong word or tense, but it doesn't matter. 39

The third reason is that not enough attention is paid to listening. You have one mouth but two ears! All the hearing is necessary for you to start speaking.

Fourth, most Chinese students are reactive rather than proactive(主动的) language learners. Instead of actively seeking out opportunities to improve their spoken English they passively wait for speaking opportunities to come to them and wonder why their English always remains poor. 40

A. Second, they are afraid of making mistakes.

B. They may try to avoid making similar mistakes next time.

C. Obviously the better answer is to expand their vocabulary.

D. However, their spoken English does not have to remain "poor"!

E. The second reason lies in the reluctance of using what has just been learned.

F. The person you are speaking to will understand you and make allowances for any mistakes he hears.

G. If you have this proactive outlook, then you will see English opportunities wherever you go.

Batman television series in the 1960s. Adam West says that after the show was 41, he had a difficult time being less famous than he once was. But that period lasted just a short time 42 he went on with another job.

"It's a(n) 43 of not really examining it. Just going along putting one foot 44 the other and not thinking too much about it. And, when work 45 , think about the work. It's no 46 thing. It's easy. If you are lost in the past, there is 47 to go but down."

Burt Ward played Batman's young helper Robin in the television series. Like Adam West, Burt Ward 48 often at fan conventions. Many people pay to see their childhood 49 , and are happy to have their picture taken with them.

"Actually, the fame is there – it just takes a different 50 . Some may think of our TV show being our 51 time, but when I meet people, they act just as 52 as when I was during Batman days. So, it's not that the people 53 , but that the perception (看法) is different. Honestly, nothing has changed – I'm the same person as I was before."

He says he has made a 54 living over the past 45 years. 55 he is paid for his work, that is all that matters. Being famous does not pay for food, housing and other costs, but 56 does.

If people can 57 that this is just part of the job – all the publicity, all the press, all the compliments, they could 58 keep a cool mind and not let it go to their heads. If they look at it as part of their personality and 59 people to bow to them everywhere they go, that's not going to happen! The early Christian philosopher St. Augustine said, "The desire for 60 tempts even noble minds, but I would rather have truth than money or fame."
